

How does it work?

JobBoard is a cross-device web-application that bridges and connects mainly graduates with potential employers without any need to install any application on users' devices.

Job Board is organised into five sections:

Home

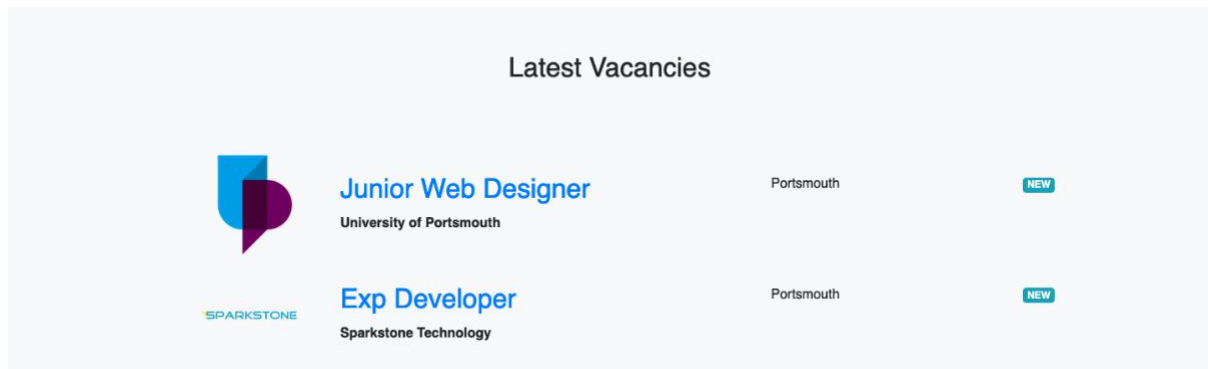

The homepage is top-down structured into three sections where the first one is provided with a quick job search based on a job title, location and job type. Below the quick job search are located top job searches on the website. If you want to search for a job, just insert the specification in the given search engine. Then click on search.

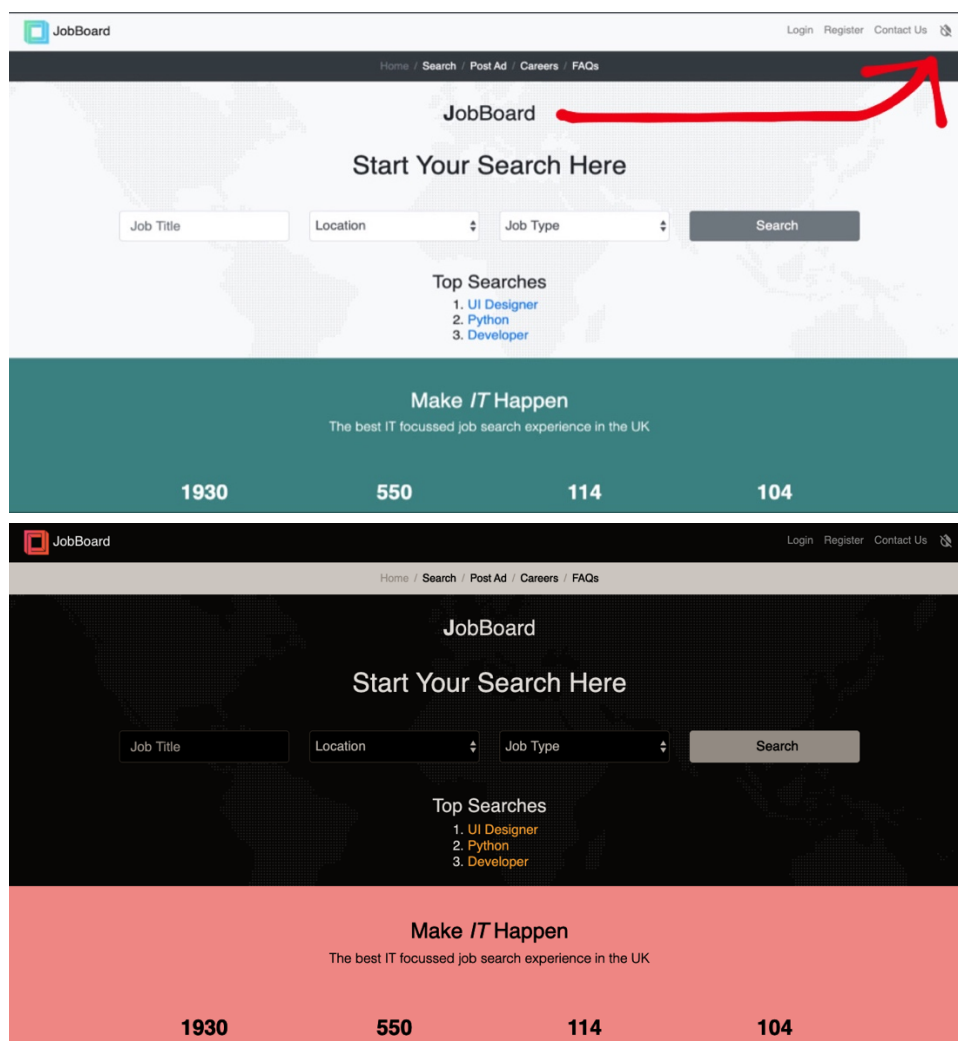

The second section is dedicated to the statistics of the website, namely candidates, registered companies, posted and filled vacancies.

The third section shows the latest vacancies that have been uploaded.

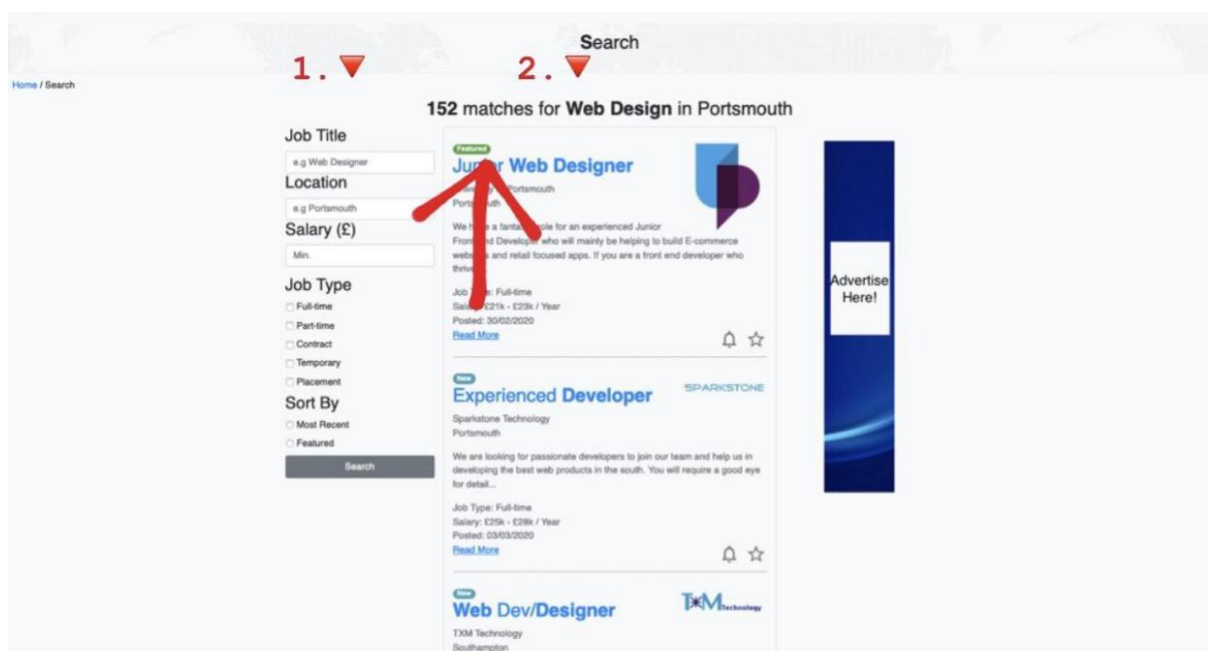

Homepage also dispose with a tool for visually impaired people who might suffer from loss of central and peripheral vision, blurred vision or extreme light sensitivity. By clicking the slashed icon in the top right corner, the website adjusts to darker hues that are acceptable for visually impaired people.

Search

The search page consists of two main columns in a row, side by side from the left. The first column is a job search specification section where a job seeker can define desired job title, location, job type and search sorting possibilities. By specifying your job then click the grey search button you will be provided with your specified offer.

The middle column displays job offers uploaded to the JobBoard. Job Offers might have various labels in the left top corner that may further explain whether the job offer is for example featured, new, top rated or a placement. You can open certain offers by clicking the blue title of each job offer.

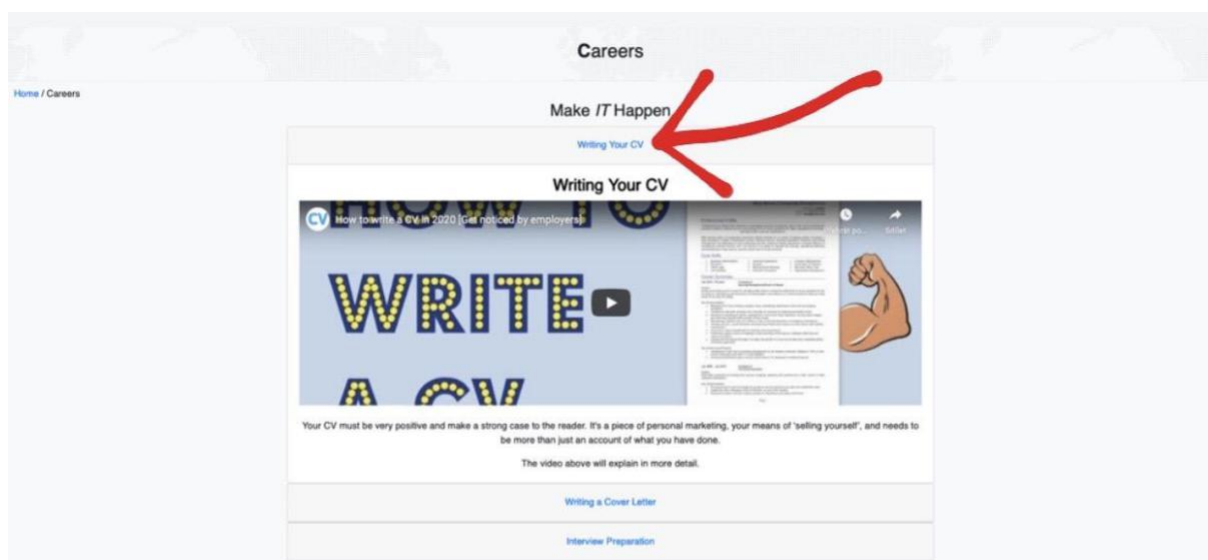

Post ad

The Post ad site is split for two types of customers. To those who ever had uploaded an advertisement within the JobBoard and to those who had never done it. The more information about how to post ad are in the third section of the FAQ page.

Careers

The Careers section is dedicated to career advice. There are three drop-downs that easily open by clicking the blue title of each drop-down. There are three advice drop-downs including videos about how to write a cv, how to write a cover letter and how to prepare for an interview.

FAQ

FAQ page is based on the same principle just like the careers page. By clicking the title of the drop-down the content will easily display. The content website serves to answer the most frequently asked questions.

Note: For creating profiles and uploading job offers, you need to register. Please, proceed to another FAQ section.
